

ABSTRACT

A touch panel module includes a touch unit and a memory unit jointly connecting to a connection socket through buses to become an integrated single module. The connection socket has another end 5 connecting to a command unit through another bus thereby to provide a common memory function.